What is MIMO?

MIMO – Moving In, Moving On!
Application of Art-Based Methods to Social and Youth Work*

MIMO applies art-based methods to anticipatory youth work and the social services sector together with young people, teachers, youth and social sector workers as well as artists.

The MIMO project spans over three years (01 November 2010 – 31 December 2013) and is funded by the Central Baltic INTERREG IV A 2007–2013 programme.

MIMO for young people

MIMO gives young people the chance to influence and get their voices heard.

MIMO has reached almost 5000 young people through different workshops and events.

The MIMO workshops provide opportunities for artistic self-expression through theatre, dance, photography, visual arts, puppetry, music and digital storytelling.

The performances of MIMO deal with issues that are important in young people's lives.

MIMO for professionals

MIMO offers training in the use of art-based methods for professionals working with young people in the cultural, social and health care and youth work sector.

The activities of MIMO focus on working in multiprofessional groups.

MIMO will publish a handbook and collections of articles on the results and experiences of the project, among other things.

MIMO organises open seminars and training events that offer a chance to learn about the theme of the project through both lectures and art-based workshops.
